

DESCRIPTION

The studded spout supports the minimum amount of body design that this piece showcases. A study in simplicity, the Matakam culture is well known for their simplistic designs. This jar was used to hold wine and is a reason for the lack of intricate designs. The thin spout allows for a stopper to be placed in the hole.

DETAILS

- Culture: Matakam
- Geography: Chad
- Circa: 19th c
- Weight: Approximately 8 LBS
- Materials: Terracotta

SIZES

- VMK0002.....13"W x 18.5"H x 13"D
- VMK0003.....13"W x 19"H x 13"D

LIST PRICING

- VMK0002.....00203
- VMK0003.....00902

